goth style clothing - Many elements of gothic fashion originate from the Victorian era. Elements of Victorian fashions have returned in the last few decades due to relatively new gothic subculture. Going to a gothic event will mean going to town on planning, creating, buying and making all the elements of your formal gothic outfit. Gothic fashion is strongly influenced by the historical fashions of the Victorian era. Half the fun of attending a gothic music event is getting all dressed up and looking awesome. A typical gothic outfit would be a corseted top, a floor length skirt, a black lace parasol, gloves, dark jewellery and a small hat fascinator.

Gothic inspired fashions for men can be typically Victorian with top hats and tails, and waistcoats and pocket watches. Men can also often be seen wearing steampunk and cyber gothic clothing. Women's gothic fashions tend to focus on elements only from the Victorian era, with bustle skirts, steel boned corsets and hats.

Women attending a gothic event can also be seen wearing elements of steampunk costumes. Elaborate made scientist headwear, leather skirts and corsets with metal latch fastenings are all reminiscent of the steampunk look and such daring looks demand much more attention. Victorian skirts were often flounced and draped with lots of feminine frills which makes them extremely popular in pretty gothic fashion.

More modern variations of the gothic outfit include short tutu skirts with lace and ribbons, long evening fishtail skirts from slinky satin, or 50's style Morticia wiggle pencil skirts and long evening skirts. A beautiful gothic inspired look can always be achieved with the correct accessories and the perfect outfit definitely does not have to be all black.
